NOTED BAND HERE FOR CELEBRATION

COMMITTEE SECURES ST. JOSEPH MUSICIANS AND DRILL TEAM

COME ON SPECIAL TRAIN

Will Appear in Shriners' Full Dress and Fez—Will Bring Quartet Also.

The noted forty-piece Shrine Band, drum corps and patrol of Moila temple at St. Joseph will give the evening's entertainment in Maryville next Wednesday, September 7, at the close of Maryville's centennial celebration and soldiers' reunion. Arrangements were made for this entertainment yesterday afternoon.

With the band, drum corps and patrol, there will be 110 in the party. They will come to Maryville on a special train leaving St. Joseph at 5:30 p. m., and arriving at 7:15 p. m. The return trip will be made about midnight that night.

The members of the band, as well as the drum corps and patrol, will appear in their entertainment here in full dress suits and with their fezes. The patrol will give a drill on Main street in front of the courthouse square and this will be followed by a band concert by the Shrine band. The concert will be given in the courthouse yard. With the patry will be a quartette which will give several songs during the evening.

This band, as well as the drum corps and patrol, has attracted a great deal of attention whereever it has been. At the Imperial Council of the Shriners at Des Moines last June, the St. Joseph team and band was one of the very best there. They competed with 100 teams and bands there from all over the country.

The band, drum corps and patrol will be accompanied by the divan, composed of all the officers of the temple.

The centennial committee feels itself fortunate in securing such an entertainment as they know it will be very high-class and all anyone should wish for.

A committee composed of Charles C. Helimers, Ed W. Keck, Albert Kuchs and James Todd were in St. Joseph yesterday afternoon to complete the arrangements for the Shrine band and patrol to come here.

Mrs. James Middleton and her guests, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bradbury of Pawnee City, Neb., motored to Clarinda, Ia., yesterday to spend the day with Dr. and Mrs. M. M. Newlon.

BOOTH TARKINGTON

This eminent hoosier has for years been acclaimed one of the greatest of American authors. "The Turmoil," "Seventeen" and the Penrod stories, are only a few of the many from his pen that have made fame, popularity and wealth for him. In 1919 his work, "The Magnificent Ambersons," won the Pulitzer prize for the best story published during the year, "presenting the wholesome atmosphere of American life and the highest standard of American manners and manhood." His tale, "The Oriole," which you will have an opportunity to follow in serial form in this paper, is one of those fascinating, extremely humorous depictions of child life which best illustrate his talents.

First installment will appear Friday.

NEED MARTIAL LAW IN WEST VIRGINIA

Washington, Aug. 31.—President Harding today drafted and signed a proclamation of martial law in West Virginia, Secretary of War Weeks anonunced. General Bandholtz was given a copy of the proclamation in order that it can be put into effect upon decision of the President to issue it.

Logan, Aug. 31.—Deputy John Gore was killed when miners attacked a posse of officers near here today. Other casualties were reported but are unverified. The reports indicate the miners will defy President Harding's proclamation.

Army officers entered the miners lines with copies of the procalmation, but the march toward Mingo county continues.

Charleston, Aug. 31.—Hundreds of miners were swarming into Marmet, ten miles from here, today, according to reports received at noon. The miners said they were going toward Boone county in disregard to President Harding's ultimatum that they must disband.

Madison, Aug. 31.—Couriers today are traveling to the outlying regions of the West Virginia coal fields, carrying to the striking miners President Harding's proclamation calling upon them to disperse and return to their homes before tomorrow or face the alternative of rigid martial law.

Because of interrupted telephone service many miners in Logan and Mingo counties today had not received word of the President's action. Marching miners are passing through here steadily today to join the assemblage of 3,500 men already at Jeffery. They are the continuation of a stream of strikers that have been pouring through here for two days.

MISS BETTY TURNER BACK FROM MONTH'S VACATION

Miss Betty Turner home service secretary of the Nodaway County chapter of the American Red Cross, has returned from her vacation, spent in the North, and the Red Cross rooms were re-opened today. The Red Cross headquarters are now located in Suite 5 of the Michau Building. Signs directing former service men to the rooms will be put up today.

The offices have been closed for a month, and Miss Turner urges all former service men to come to the Red Cross headquarters now with any problems they may have.

Miss Turner and the executive board are again trying to secure a resident county nurse to take the place of Miss Anna Heisler, who resigned early in the summer to take a position as county nurse for Grundy County. Negotiations are under way with a capable nurse at Larmar, who is anxious to locate in a community where her two children will have the advantage of superior educational facilities.

FOR ENFORCEMENT OF NATIONS LAWS

ATTORNEY-GENERAL DAUGHERTY SAYS, "OBEY STATUTES".

FIRST OFFICIAL ADDRESS

Attorney-General H. M. Daugherty today, in his first speech since assuming the office of Attorney-General, came out flat footedly for enforcement of all the laws of the nation including those affecting disputes between capital and labor, prohibition and political offenses. His address was delivered before the joint session of the American Bar Association and that Ohio State Barr Association at Cincinnati, Ohio this afternoon. The speech was as follows:

Respect for Law

"Respect for law is the one essential fact of our civilization. Without it life, liberty and property are insecure. Without it civilization falls back to the chaos and anarchy of primitive times. Under such conditions, each human being is compelled to attend primarily to his own safety and to the protection of his own property, and has neither time nor opportunity for the intellectual moral or spiritual development.

I know it is often said that this is the wealthiest and at the same time the most materialistic age in the world. That is true in a certain sense, but it is also true that the common wealth of the age as well as the sum total of individual wealth furnishes the opportunity for the achievements that have been accomplished. Our schools and colleges, our libraries, our homes of comfort, our means of transportation and communication, and all our means of enjoyment in life, are physical conditions necessary for spiritual as contrasted with material upbuilding.

"The righ of property on the one hand, of life, of liberty, of the pursuit of happiness on the other, are not antagonistic and hostile, to be set off in terms of opposition. Material wealth is the handmaid of spiritual achievement—that is of intellectual, social and moral achievement. All progress is conditioned on the principle of conservation. Conservation, or preservation as it is usually termed, of the wealth of the world, whether it be in the realm of the material or spirtual, is conditioned on the supremacy of the law. If there is one fact that history teaches above another, it is that the rights incident to wealth and the rights furnishing the opportunity to enjoy spiritual, intellectual, moral and social things are conditioned upon the supremacy of the law.

Capital and Labor.

The supremacy of the law, though challanged, is not undermined by the ordinary criminal who commites murder, robbery, larceny, etc. To the contrary, every occurence of crimes of this sort tends to impress upon society the profound importance of the supremacy of the law and its vigorous enforcement. The supremacy of the law is and has been challenged mainly in that class of legislation

STUDENTS IN SHORT COURSE KEEP BUSY

WHAT THEY ARE DOING

Five Groups Study "Growing Things". Prescribed for First Year of Rotation Plan.

"I never saw a busier bunch," says Bert Cooper, county superintendent of schools, of the ninety-five teachers atending the short course in vitalized agriculture at the State Teachers' College.

The five groups into which the teachers are divided for instruction meet together each morning at 8 o'clock for roll call and music, but many of them are there and at work by 6:30 o'colck. Before some of them have left their work for lunch at noon, others are back to get in a few extra minutes on their projects. The working day ends officially at 4 o'clock but for many of the student teachers it continues until 10 o'clock at night, when the building is closed.

After a half hour of music, at which Miss Fanny Buchanan demonstrates the use of victrola music in schools the students divide into the five specialized groups. This morning the group under the leadership of William Burr took a field trip on which it continued its study of potatoes.

Mr. Cooper's group also took a field trip. The members visited the home of N. Sisson, where they made a survey of his canned and stored foods. Mrs. Anna Davis explaining to the grooup her methods in canning and storing of fruits and vegetables. Tomorrow the calss will study cold pack canning and drying and will make experiments at the college. They will demonstrate the different products that can be dried and others that can be canned by the cold pack method.

W. W. Stanfield, recently elected to head the department of agriculture on the State Teachers College faculty, accompanied Mr. Cooper's group on its field trip this morning.

The group led by George Somerville continued its study of corn, taking a field trip over the College farm, estimating the yield from the fields and investigationg the black smut found on some of the corn.

Leslie Somerville's group is studying alfalfa and other legumes, and this morning took a field trip over the College pastures. W. A. Power's group also spent the morning in the field, identifying harmful weeds and collecting the seed.

Besides the work in the specialized groups, the students each have wood projects to complete duirng the short course. Armed with hammer, plane and saw, they are at work in spare time on canning racks for cold pack method, seed corn testing boxes, drying racks for dehydrating in the house, hanging baskets for beautifying the porch and lawn, and other devices.

All the subjects studied this year are in the first year classification of "Growing things". Next year the study will be of "making things," including sewing, rope work, concrete work, home carpentry and other work. The third year will be devoted to "living things", the feeding and care of animals, the preparation of food and the like. The fourth year of the rotation plan is devoted to study of the soil and beautification of the home. Soil erosion and soil building will receive special attention.

BERLIN'S POLICE MASSED FOR EXPECTED TROUBLE

With All Cabinet Members Absent From City, Air Is Charged With Uncertainty.

Berlin, Aug. 31.—The day police were massed here today for expected rioting in connection with the monster socialist demonstration against monarchist and military activities. The air of the city is electric with expectancy, and the strangest feature of the situation is that all members of the cabinet have left the city, leaving no responsible government heads here in event of serious disorders.

WILL BE HELD IN GRAY SALE PAVILION.

AUSPICES FARM BUREAU

First Day Will Be Chester White, and Hampshire; Second, Duroc; Third Poland-China.

The fall show of the Boys' and Girls' Pig Club will be held October 11, 12 and 13, under the auspices of the Nodaway County Farm Bureau. The first day will be Chester White and Hampshire day, the second Duroc day and the third Poland-China day.

The Boys' and Girls' Pig Club was first organized by the Farmers' Trust Company more than a year ago. The club then had about seventy-five boy and girl members, who were limited to the raising of Poland-China hogs. This year the club was taken over by the Farm Bureau and the members allowed to select any breed of hogs.

Seventy-nine boys and girls entered the contest. Each of them bought a gilt last fall, and the best of the litters will be exhibited at the show here. The pigs are now about seven months old. Thirty-three of the members successfully raised Poland-China litters, twenty-two chose Durocs, eight selected Hampshires and the same number Chester Whites. Only eight dropped out of the contest.

Prizes of $8 for first, $6 for second, $4 for third, $3 for fourth and $2 each for fifth and sixth places are offered for the best boar pig of each type, and the same prizes are offered for the best gilt. The total of the prize money is $200.

The show will be held in Gray's Sale Pavilion. The committee in charge is composed of Elihu Shell, chairman, Ernest Willhoyte and R. A. Kinnaird.

The pig club work is designed to encourage the raising of pure bred stock and to interest the boys and girls in farm enterprises. Every member of the club is a winner, regardless of whether he wins a prize, as he has several fine pigs as the result of his participation in the contest.

MAY DISMISS THE SCHOOLS SEPT. 7

BOARDS WANT PUPILS TO SEE HISTORICAL PARADE.

RAISE FUNDS TOMORROW

Entire Celebration Will Be Free to the Visitors—Want Food for Soldiers' Dinner.

Dismissal of all the schools in the county that the pupils may come to Maryville to see one hundred years of Missouri's history depicted in parade form here next Wednesday is a possibility being discussed today, following information that a number of school boards have already decided to close their schools on that day.

Pupils in the schools will have an opportunity to learn more of Missouri's history on that one day than by months of study of books.

"It is a matter for the individual boards of directors to decide," said Bert Cooper, county superintendent of schools. "I think a number of directors will do it; I know that a number of them are planning to do it. I would like to see the schools dismissed and the day made up later."

Prof. J. W. Pierce, superintendent of the Skidmore consolidated school district, is in favor of closing his school. He will ask his board of directors to take that action and will urge his pupils to see the parade.

All organizations are hard at work on the episodes delegated to them. Every effort is being made to make each of the twenty-one floats portray faithfully some step in the development of the state's greatness. A first prize of $50 is offered for the best episode, with smaller prizes for the others.

With the combining of the two days in one and the securing of the Shriners' band, drum and trumpet corps and patrol of St. Joseph as an added attraction, visitors are now offered a day crowded with enjoyable and worth while features. The day includes band concerts by three other bands, the unveiling of the boulder commemorating the building of the first house in Maryville, a free dinner for all former service men at noon, the historical parade, "retreat" by the soldiers in the evening, and as a fitting finale, the concert and program of intricate drills by the St. Joseph Shriners, who will come by special train.

A committee composed of J. B. Robinson, G. L. Wilfley, Joe Jackson and George B. Baker will begin soliciting citizens for donations tomorrow morning to defray the expenses of the celebration.

Mrs. J. B. Robinson, chairman of the committee on the free dinner for soldiers, also announces that her committee will begin tomorrow soliciting all residents for food to be served at the dinner. The committee is composed of Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. Thomas Gile, Mrs. R. L. McDougal, Mrs. R. S. Brainger, Mrs. Catherine Miller, Mrs. Jesse Douglas and Miss Mary Evans, Miss Bertha Beal, Mrs. Gallatin Craig.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NODAWAY COUNTY

where there exists a difference of opinion as to the governmental policy in enacting the legislation in question.

"Disrespect for the law has manifested itself in the past mainly by large corporations or aggregations of wealth, commonly known as big business, and by labor organizations in relation to such business. I am not much in favor of new nostrums and panaceas to cure the ills of the body politic, but I venture to make the following suggestions:

"First, it is an undisputed fact that the public have a right to know what the quarrel is about in every actual or threatened strike or lockout, and similar controversies.

"Second, There should be some definite agencies in government for ascertaining these facts fully and making an impartial finding by those specially qualified both by temperament and training to do this particular kind of work; and such finding should be reported so that it will be a reliable source of knowledge to which students and publicists and statesmen can resort.

"Third, compulsory jurisdiction over these two factors to compel them to submit to an inquiry of this sort is not only desirable but just.

"Fourth, at present our study of this question has not been sufficiently thorough to warrant legislation compelling the acceptance of such findings by the parties thereto. Therefore, the jurisdiction of the proper agency should be obligatory upon the patries to submit to the investigation; the acceptance of the finding by the parties should be voluntary.

"Fifth, the experience of the past shows that in most cases full, accurate, reliable publicity has been sufficient to compel an adjustment of these cases. Public sentiment is a controlling factor, and it is important in justice to both of the parties, that it should depend upon something more accurate than successful propaganda.

"Sixth, in the course of time knowledge of the nature and causes of these controversies derived in this way may crystallize public entiment to the extent that laws can be enacted making such controversies impossible.

Political Offenses.

I have been discussing acts and conducts as a basis for disrespect for law. I now turn to a consideration of several subjects that tend to create disrespect for law not by specific acts merely, but by attempts to justify those acts by certain theories of political philosophy. And of these, the first is the doctrine of so-called political offenses.

Political offenses is a term, as you know, of international law used to denote certain classes of offenses which are excepted from the operation of treaties of extradition between States. The offenses comprehended under this term for which ex tradition will not be granted are usually those involving matters pertaining to civil, religious or political liberty. The state in which the fugitive has found asylum frequently reserves to itself the right to refuse to surrender such fugitive on the ground that it is one of the excepted cases under the extradition treaty. It wil lbe seen that it is distinctly a doctrine of international rather than of the domestic law of a state.

In this country there is now being disseminated an extensive propaganda to dignify the crimes committed by many persons who are now in prison for disloyal conduct or for obtructing or hindering the Government in prosecuting the war with Germany and, by means of such propaganda, to create a public sentiment not only to have such criminals freed, but to have this general doctrine of political offenses recognized as a part of our domestic law, the purpose being, when the doctrine is once recognized, to enable criminals and those in sympathy with them to continue such opposition to law and order with impunity. From the history of the origin of the doctrine of political offenses, it will be seen that there can be no recognition of that doctrine in the municipal law of this country. Why? Because when the sovereign will of the state expresses itself through duly enacted law is it repugnant to every notion of the supremacy of the law and its uniform application to recognize the doctrine of political offenses. Again, the reason for this doctrine is not present under municipal law- that is, the domestic law of a State. It has been seen that under international law the reason for the doctrine was the different standards of two or more sovereignties as to civil, political or religious concepts. That reason does not exist under the municipal law of a political state or sovereignty in this country.

Harding's Position

President Harding tersely and forcibly stated this view when he said at Omaha, on October 7, 1920:

"'No true American will argue that our laws should not be enforced. I refer to laws, no matter of what nature, whether they be those which deal with ordinary crimes and misdemeanors, or those which deal with acts of treason to the United States, threatening to the Constitution and the fabric of our social organization.

"'I wish no one to misunderstand me, and, therefore, I will say as plainly as I can that for my part I can see no essential difference between ordinary crimes on the one hand and political crimes and political prisoners on the other hand. If there is a distinction, surely it is not a distinction which favors political crimes or political prisoners. The thief, or any ordinary criminal is surely less a menace to those things which we all hold dear than the man or woman who conspires to destroy our American institutions.'

About "Personal Liberty."

"The question of the limitations of personal liberty is, in the first instance, a question of political philosophy and not of law. In the evolution of government we have gradually limited the sphere of individual liberty. A study of the history of legislation wherein personal liberty has been limited by statute will show that these enactments have been vigorously challenged, and the same arguments have been used against violation of personal liberty that we hear today.

"From the standpoint of the Government, the only sound view is that of law enforcement. Whatever difference of opinion exist in the views as to the wisdom of some of these laws can be of no concern to the agencies for law enforcement. The Executive Department cannot make the laws. It is equally true that it cannot nullify laws. To refuse or to neglect to enforce a valid enactment of the legislative department of government, or to enforce it mechanically or half-heartedly or to wink at its violation, is without justification on any sound theory of government. Those who ask it or expect it not only contribute to lawlessness but destroy the basis upon which their own security rests. Our safety and happiness lies in obedience to law by every man, woman and child within the domain of our Republic, and no one can undermine respect for law without being, to that extent, an enemy to law and orderly government.

"I am opposed to any system of government in which the rights of any individual or group of individuals depend upon the whim or caprice or temperamental attitude of any public officials.

Enforce Law or Change It.

"If any citizen dislikes the law under which he is living, his relief is through the legislative department of government, and not through those who, under the constitution, have the sworn duty of enforcing the law. As a citizen cannot choose what laws he will obey, so, likewise, those charged with law enforcement cannot choose what laws they will enforce. The only sound position for those who favor respect for law to take is that those charged with law enforcement must enforce all the laws, and all good citizens must obey all the laws; neither can exercise any right of choice in this matter without placing themselves above the law. It is the part of faithful officials to enforce and the part of good citizens to obey them.

"The Fathers did not claim infallibility for the rule of the majority. They provided against hasty or inconsiderate action by a system of checks and balances, by the doctrine of the separation of powers, and by making the two branches of the legislature as well as the Executive, agencies in law making. In view of these constitutional safeguards, there can be no excuse for any person within the domain of this Republic to hold its laws in contempt; to disobey them himself or countenance others to acts of disobedience to them, on the ground that the rights of the minority have been disregarded. It is the duty of the minority as well as the majority to obey the law. My experience in the last few months as head of the law enforcing department of the Government has carried to me the conviction that these things should be said to the general public. I consider the reputable American lawyer everywhere a part of the Department of Justice and expect him to give to both the Department and the public advice and support, to the end that the law may be universally understood and uniformly enforced.

"Obey or Leave."

"If laws are obnoxious to the people it is their province to repeal them. Until they are repealed they must be observed and enforced without fear or favor.

"The Government will endure on the rock of law enforcement; or it will perish in the quicksands of lawlessness.

"Those who do not believe in our government and the enforcement of our laws should go to a country which gives them their peculiar liberty.

"To those who come to our shores to take advantage of American opportunities it is becoming to wave the hand of welcome. But it is our duty to warn them to stay away unless they intend to observe our customs and obey our laws.

"My duty is clear. As long as I am the responsible head of the Department of Justice the law will be enforced with all the power possessed by the government which I am at liberty to call to my command."

COUNTY AGENTS WORK OUT PLANS TO HELP MEMBERS

Some Have Worked Out a Plan for Offering To Membership Assistance

Columbia, Aug. 31.—Without exception the county agricultural agents in Missouri are hustlers. Some of them, however, are not satisfied with a mere display of energy, so they have worked out a plan for offering to their membership a great variety of assistance.

Ray E. Miller, the agent in Cass county, has sent to each of his members the following notice:

WOMEN ARE SHOCKED BY IDEA OF LONG PETTICOATS.

Columbus, Ohio, Aug. 31—"A year or so ago we had to persuade women to wear them short. Now they are shocked at the idea of having them long."

This declaration was made by a local fitter relative to fashion's latest decree that skirts shall be made longer.

Although local shop windows display the decidedly longer skirt, they are a rarity on the streets here.

Workers in the fitting rooms of Columbus shops state that many women express a willingness to compromise by wearing the "uneven" hem—a point, or panel, here and there hanging lower than the rest of the skirt.

Wabash Kills Three More.

Granite City, Ill., Aug. 31.—Mrs. Mary Craig and Mrs. Mont Keaton were killed and William Bossman, son of Mrs. Craig by a former marriage, was perhaps fatally injured when a Wabash passenger train demolished the car in which they were riding here today.

The boy died later, bringing the death toll to three.

When you come right down to reason, what is there to "discount" tires—

THE next time a friend comes to you all excited about some wonderful tire bargain—ask him how much value he ought to get for each dollar of tire money.

It's astonishing that any car owner today should not know all the tire service he is entitled to.

Nor how to check up between the economy of par quality on one hand—and big discounts, surplus stocks, discontinued lines and retreads on the other.

For two years U. S. Tire makers have been telling the American people all about tires.

They have always led the fight for better tires.

They have established 92 Factory Branches all over the country. Perfecting U. S. distribution so that you get a fresh, live tire every time you buy a U. S. Tire.

So when a man once decides on U. S. Tires he knows what he is getting in quality—service—economy.

In support of his own judgment he gets the pledged word and reputation of the largest and most successful tire concern in the world.

A sound reason for the fact that you see more U. S. Tires on more cars than ever this year.

The U. S. CHAIN TREAD

One of the few tires of which it may be said that they deliver economy year in and year out and tire after tire.

What Missouri Farmers Are Doing!

Weevil in wheat is being reported by a number of farmers from all parts of the state. Control of this pest is comparatively easy and cheap if started in time. Carbon bisulphide, applied so the heavy fumes can sink into the wheat, will kill the bugs. Farmers should watch their wheat carefully for the weevil and if help is needed should call on the county agent for assistance in controlling it.

The annual picnic of the Randolph county farm bureau will be held south of Huntsville on September 8. J. Kelly Wright and Sam Jordan will furnish the oratory and County Agent Howat has prepared a big program of entertainment including a stock judging contest and races.

Farmers living in the vicinity of Smithville will gather at a big picnic near that place the second week in September.

Johnson, Nodaway, Cole, Grundy and Caldwell is the order of the standing of counties in the Better Bulls contest.

The Caldwell County Farm Bureau has set for one of its aims, the growing of a patch of alfalfa on every farm in the county.

Marion county is leading the state in the production of Grimm alfalfa. This variety when planted in a properly prepared seed bed, with the soil limed and the seed innoculated, is said to withstand the winter better than other kinds. It also controls weeds better than common alfalfa.

Farmers of Lawrence county held a picnic meeting at the Newtonia experiment field last Saturday. Experts form the College of Agriculture explained the experiments under way.

MISSOURI MARKETING SERVICE IS UNDER WAY

To Aid Farm Bureau Members Through the State in Co-operative Purchase of Some Commodities

Columbia, Aug. 31.—The Missouri Farm Bureau Marketing Service, with branches at St. Joseph and Clayton, is in a position to aid Farm Bureau members throughout the state in the co-operative purchase of such commodities as coal, fertilizer, etc. A price list for coals and fertilizers recently was issued by the Clayton service. Prices for coal range from $2.65 to $4.25 a ton, f. o. b. Illinois mines. Fertilizer prices range from $22 a ton for 16 per cent acid phosphate to $40 a ton for the 3-24-0 grades, and represent a considerable saving for the ultimate consumer.

The St. Joseph branch, last week, conducted an auction sale of a part of the half million pounds of wool stored there in the big Northwest pool. A total of about 87,000 pounds was sold at prices ranging from 25 cents for fine combings to 15 cents for fine burry wool. The majority of the lots sold were at ranging from 19 to 22 cents a pound. Bids on the remainder of the wool in the pool were not satisfactory, so they were rejected and another sale will be held. There were five bidders at the sale.

William H. Wagenbreth, Jr., is the marketing agent at Clayton and R. E. Davies is agent at St. Joseph. John McDaniel is manager of the Northwest wool pool.

Mr. Wagenbreth recently completed arrangements for co-operating with the marketing services of state farm bureau organizations in other mid-western states and through what has been named the mid-west marketing association, will be in a position to obtain even better quantity prices than theretofore.

County marketing committees that are planning the purchase of anything in car load lots should get in touch with Mr. Wagenbreth or Mr. Davies before orders are placed as it is more than likely they will be able to supply a better price than that offered locally.

An idea of the size to which the wool pool at St. Joseph has grown is given in the following list of counties contributing together with the amounts pooled by each county: Clay, 85,106; Ray, 47,960; Nodaway, 167,427; Holt, 14,150; Clinton, 6,569; Grundy, 17,602; Dekalb, 14,602; Caldwell, 14,952; Atchison, 2,618; Platte, 15,911; Andrew, 34,395; Buchanan, 10,924; Gentry, 11,748; Harrison, 1,270; Cass, 4,087; Lafayette, 3,965; and from Kansas, 67,872 pounds.

A Farmers' Farm Loan Association has been organized in Lincoln county through the assistance of the County Agent and the Farm Bureau.

A TALE of pure delight; one of the great American writer's immortal "kid" stories.

Fit to go along with "Penrod," "Seventeen" or "Too Gentle Julia;" in fact, it is woven about the same interesting characters as the latter.

"The Oriole" deals with "thirteen," that transition age between childhood and youth when one never knows what the young human offspring will be up to next. It is the age when imagination takes the most unexpected turns and fancy plays the queerest pranks.

In this narrative Mr. Tarkington brings to bear all his genius for character, situations and humor. Every line is either a laugh or a study in the delectable ways of the young; the whole is a work of unbounded joy.

POULTRY OWNERS WILL NOT TOLERATE "SLACKER" HENS

County Agent Is Busy Culling Non-Layers From Flocks of the County.

R. A. Kinnaird, county farm agent, is busy this week culling the poultry flocks of Farm Bureau members of non-laying hens. He is culling four or five flocks each day. Eighty-eight poultry owners have asked him to do the work.

The owners need to make no special provision for the work, says the county agent, except to keep all the hens in the house or in coops, so that they can be easily caught, and to provide a convenient pen or coop in which to put the culls. The culling is done just as fast as the hens can be caught.

Mr. Kinnaird asks the owners for whom the culling is done to keep a record of eggs gathered each day during the week preceding the culling and compare it with the number gathered after the non-layers are weeded out.

Most Of Highways In Missouri Outgrowth Of Indian Trails

Most of the Missouri highways are the outgrowth of Indian trails of former days, according to the August, or Centennial, number of the Missouri Road Bulletin, published by the State Highway Department at Jefferson City.

In showing the progress of roads in the state within the past 100 years the Bulletin states these trails were made by the Indians as they pursued wild animals. Usually these early trails led from various crossings of the larger streams, being chosen chiefly because of peculiar formation or because they were more accessible. These roads followed the ridges into the interior of the country. Naturally, many of them were obliterated by various causes in the course of time.

"De Soto crossed the Mississippi river in his route from New Orleans to St. Louis, and is supposed to have landed somewhere in the vicinity of New Madrid, Mo. De Soto trailed north from there, following the river almost to St. Louis, which was perhaps the head of his journey," the Bulletin says.

"Some of these trails are marked with the remains of the Mound Builders, and it is evident in this prehistoric period they followed some of the roads that are in use today. Particularly is this true in Southeast Missouri. For that reason, the oldest highway in the state extends from Caruthersville through New Madrid, Scott and Cape Girardeau counties, through Ste. Genevieve and into St. Louis.

Early Trails of State.

Concluding its article, The Bulletin prints the following from Houck's History of Missouri, on the early trails of the state:

"The earliest indications of the existence of a well known, if not well established, highway in the territory of what is now Missouri we find noted on Franquelin's map, published in 1684. On this map a trail or trace is laid down extending from the mouth of the Arkansas River to the mouth of the Osage, where, according to this geographer, was at that time the village of the Zages (Osages).

"This trail or trace is then shown to run east along the south side of the Missouri River for some distance, possibly as far as the mouth of the Gasconade. Although the map shows no river emptying into the Missouri at the point where the trail is shown to cross the Missouri River, it is evident that the crossing thus indicated is near the mouth of the Gasconade.

"On the north side this trace is shown to run west with the river to the villages of the 'Missourits,' located on this map on the north side of the Missouri and above the village of the Osages. It is said that in 1700 the 'Missourits' dwelt at the mouth of Grand River, and it may be that even at the time Franquelin compiled this map, in 1684, these Indians had located their lodges at the mouth of this stream. Evidently they then did not live at the mouth of the Missouri, where the earliest French explorers had located them.

"From Grand River another trail or path led west to a point opposite, maybe, to the mouth of the Big Blue or the Kansas River, and along this 'beaux chemin' we must trace Bourgmont. No doubt, also, a trail followed the river far beyond.

French Colonies in State.

"From a map published in 1720, with a word by Dr. James Smith, entitled 'Some Considerations of the Consequences of the French Settling Colonies on the Missouri,' it appears that a path or trail was then known to exist across South Missouri, this path evidently being a continuation of a trail starting on the Atlantic coast in Virginia, known as the 'Virginia warriors' path,' leading across the Cumberland mountains, thence to the falls of the Ohio, and thence across what is now Southern Indiana and Illinois to the Mississippi and west through Southern Missouri to the Rocky Mountains—a veritable Indian 'Appian Way' across the continent. The map indicates that this trail crossed the Mississippi at Cape St. Anthony is above Grand Tow this point is not certain. At present Cape St. Authonk is above Grand Tower, but the geographers of the eighteenth century placed it farther south somewhere near what is now known as Gray's Point.

"The Mississippi River, both at Grand Tower and Gray's Point, is narrow, with shoals of rocks at low water extending almost from shore to shore and hence little doubt exists that this Indian trail, dividing east of the Mississippi, crossed at both points. Father Gravier says that in 1700 the wild animals coming from Illinois going south crossed the river at Cape la Croix, now Gray's Point, thus indicating that here was one of the instinctive routes made by wild animals, over which the Indians were accustomed to travel. The trail crossing at or near Grand Tower would on the west side, follow Apple Creek or the dividing ridge between the waters of the St. Francois and Meramec, but the lower trail would hug the edge of the great alluvial St. Francois basin, gradually ascending by way of Otter, Big Barren and Pike creeks to the plateaux of the Ozarks. Substantially on this route a railroad is now in operation.

"From a point on this ancient trace or trail thus shown by Dr. Smith's map across Missouri, a little southwest of the mouth of the Osage River, a trail or trace is indicated (on his map) to extend north to the mouth of the Osage, agreeing with the trail or trace shown on Franquelin's map, published thirty-five years before. From the mouth of the Osage this trace is also shown to extend across into what is now North Missouri to the mouth of the Des Moines River. Along this trail, diverging, however, on the north side of the Missouri to the mouth of the Gasconade, the Saukees and Renards had a warpath leading up to the Osage village on the upper reaches of the river of this name in the beginning of the nineteenth

At least that is what a number of Charlestown youths are now saying.

It seems that five hundred cakes of soap disappeared last week from a store on Bunker Hill street. Police were notified.

Patrolmen Hobbs and Schnicks noticed an unusual number of clean hands, necks and ears among the children. They asked one washed youth if he had any of the new soap. An affirmative answer was given. Following numerous questions and numerous visits to homes, 350 bars of the missing soap was found in one day. The search is still on.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Larmer, accompanied by their daughter, Virginia, returned yesterday from a ten days' visit in Des Moines, Ia., with their son, Forrest. They also attended the Iowa State aFir. They were accompanied home from Des Moines by Helen Prather of Tarkio who spent yesterday here.

ASKS $30,000 DAMAGES ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT

Nodaway County Farmer Accused by by Step-Daughter—Case In St. Joseph.

Suit has been filed in federal court in St. Joseph by Mary Rawlings of near Bedford, Iowa, against Alvaro Roth, her step-father, a well-to-do Nodaway county farmer, for $10,000 actual, and $20,000 exemplary damages, alleging criminal assault in September, 1918, when the girl was 16 years old. She is represented by James R. Locke of Bedford, Iowa, and Homer C. King and Miles Elliott of St. Joseph. The defendant is about 50 years old.

The St. Joseph Gazette had the following about it: Roth married Miss Rawlings' mother when Miss Rawlings was a young child. The mother has been dead several years. Miss Rawlings has declared, according to her attorneys, that Roth forced her to live with him for several years until 1919, and that he took her to Iowa and Colorado. According to Elliott, Roth is liable to prosecution on a white slavery charge as a result if Miss Rawlings' story can be proved.

The girl lived for a short time in St. Joseph, and attended one of the business schools as a student. Roth visited her here, she said, according to her attorneys. The girl became of age March 11, 1920.

Health the Keynote to Beauty.

Beauty means so much to women—power, social triumph, admiration and love. Beauty implies good health. Who ever saw a woman racked with pain, struggling with weakness, or disease, who could be called beautiful? The woman of today in this high-strung, nervous age is continually overdoing, with the result that ills peculiar to her sex develop which, unchecked, will ruin all chances for her happiness. The natural restorative for such ailments is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for more than forty years has been recognized as a standard remedy for women's ills, and has done much to relieve pain and restore good health to women.—Adv.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Baker, Mrs. E. L. Wolfert and Edward E. Williams went to St. Joseph this morning in Mr. Williams' car.
